AUGUST 1, 1868. THE SUICIDAL CAT. There was a man named Furguson, He lived on Market street, He had a speckled Thomas Cat, That couldn't well be beat; He'd catch more rats and mice and sich Than forty cats could cat. This cat would come into the room And climb up on a cheer, And there he'd sit and lick hisself And purr so awful queer, That Furguson would yell at him— But still he'd purr-severe. We are Prepared to Offer And then he'd climb the moonlit fence, And loaf around and yow!, And spit and claw another cat, Alongside of the jow!; And then they both would shake their tails, And jump around and how!. TO THE TRADE Oh, this here cat of Furguson's Was fearful then to see; He'd yell precisely like he was In fearful agony; You'd think a first-class stomach-ache Had struck some small baby. TENNESSEE, NORTH CARO-DEVOTED TO THE DISSES And all the mothers in the street, Waked by the borrid din, Would rise right up and search their babes, To find some worryin pin; And still this vigorous cat would keep TIVA VIRGINIA And as for Mr. Furguson, 'Twas more than he could bear, And so he hurled his boot-jack out, Right through the midnight air; But this vociferous Thomas Cat— Not one cent did he care. For still he yowled and kept his fur A standing up on end, And his old spine a doublin' up As far as it would bend, As if his hopes of happiness Did on his lungs depend. But while a curvin' of his spine, And waiting to attack A cat upon the other fence, There came an awful crack; And this here speckled Thomas Cat, Was busted in the back. When Furguson came down next day, There lay his old feline. And not a life was left in him, Although he had had nine. "All this has come," said Furguson, "Of curvin' of his spine." Now all ve Rads whose tender hearts Now all ye kada whose tender hear! This painful tale does rack, Just take this moral to yourselves, All of you, white and black; Don't ever go, like this here cat, To gettin' up your back. Uncurrent Money.
